

Today Ms. Effelsberg came to give us a speech about how we too can become a part of the European Parliament like her. She told us how she ended up in there and to put it simply Ms. Effelsberg never took a break. She studied at a French University, studied journalism and worked as a journalist in Marl, became an official translator in French and German, and now has become a part of the European Parliament. But she also showed us how the European Parliament works to make her work more understandable. I made a diagram about what I could understand.

She also has to overcome hard challenges like having to learn Luxembourgish within 3 months, which is hard to believe. Right now her work mainly consists of making workshops for teens and doing speeches at schools about the EU as a Community Manager in the European Parliament Liaison Office in Luxembourg. She has a website and 31 out of 56 schools of Luxembourg are signed in on her website. That means she already visited 31 schools in Luxembourg. In total Ms. Effelsberg is a very respectable, impressive and successful person, who we can all look up to.

Rabea Effelsberg is a Community Manager of the European Parliament Liaison Office in Luxembourg. Today she came to our school to talk about her story about working in the European Parliament and her work in general. She told us things like in the European Parliament you don't necessarily need to speak English or French because they all have translators. She encouraged us to keep working hard on our projects because that's how she started once too. It was really fun meeting her and learning cool facts about the European Parliament !

Dear team, today was Mrs. Effelsberg with us and taught us about the European Parliament. Especially what it is and about what it is. It was interesting how many members are included and how the translation works. We also made a quiz from which I have learned the general knowledge about the European Parliament. Mrs. Effelsberg is a very kind person and I am pleased with how well and freely she explained. She speaks 4 languages fluently (Luxembourgish, German, English and French) which is very admirable. Back in her school time, she also took part in several e-twinning projects in French!

I am happy that we had the chance to meet her.

Today Ms. Rabea Effelsberg visited our school. She explained her job and what she has done.

We also did a really fun and interesting quiz. Because of that I learned a lot about the topic. She is an impressive woman who we can look up to. She works in a European environment.

Today, Ms. Rabea Effelsberg an employee at the European Parliament and former ASGSG student visited us.

She told us a lot about her job and what it means to work at the European Parliament.

She explained how the Etwinning project(s) she participated in back in her days at our school impacted her and led to her later on starting her job at the European Parliament.

Today Ms. Rabea Effelsberg was at our school. She works for the European Parliament.

She explained to us her way from Marl to Luxembourg and the tasks she has to do in her job. It was very interesting. We also did a quiz about the European Union. For me the interesting part was that she tells us that she applied for an internship offer and was accepted, she worked hard. had to learn Luxembourgish in only three months. But it was worth it she now works as a Community Manager in the Liaison Office in Luxembourg.

During today's lesson, Ms. Rabea Effelsberg visited us. She told us about her own insightful experiences with the E-Twinning project, like telling us about how e-twinning was a type of class where we could integrate our own skills (such as drawing or editing). She also said that she personally enjoyed working in this class too, and that it helped with her own personal development and growth. To summarize, this wasn't just a class for her, but also an experience.

Rabea Effelsberg started with eTwinning at her school, the ASGSG. She studied French and German at the University of Bonn and spent her second year studying at a university in Paris. Later, she did an internship at ZDF during the European Championship.

She also trained for two years in journalism and press work at the city hall. After that, she studied more languages like Spanish and Italian in Saarbrücken.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, she moved to France and stayed there for one and a half years. She worked there and helped people learn more about German culture.

Later, she applied for an internship at the European Parliament for five months and got accepted. She works in the European Parliament liaison office in Luxembourg. There, she helps connect EU citizens with the Parliament. Now, she worked as a public relations officer for the European Parliament Liaison Office in Luxembourg, has recently become a Community Manager.
